Hello, Everyone,

I am writing to let you know that we closed the court bank account and opened a new one due to a lot of activity involving fraudulent checks that were put through for payment. None of the checks was cashed but to be safe we closed the account and opened a new one. So far, no fraudulent activity has been recorded with the new bank account but we are still getting checks for the old one. The police were informed of this and they wrote a report but because the activity is across state lines and, as I said, no money was lost, they are probably not going to pursue this any further.
